We dedicate this book to the students of Port Huron High

The student of P.H.H.S. uses and

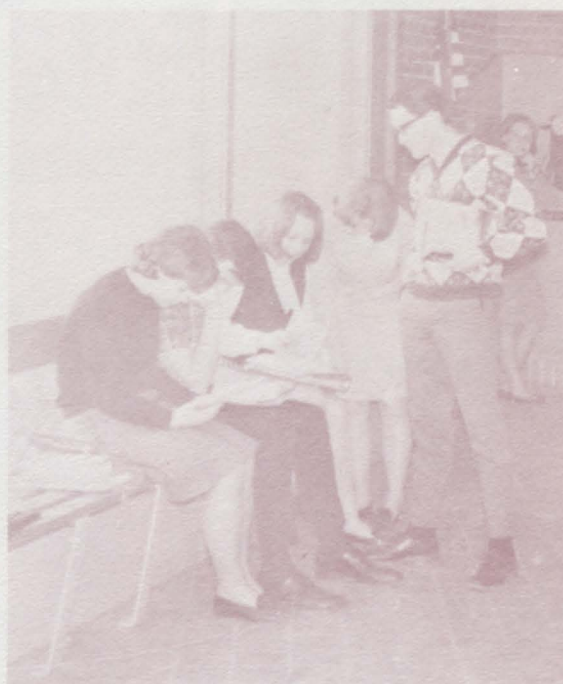

The Port Huron High student respects his school. He may be found congregating with friends in the main lobby or in the student lounge. Or he enjoys offered facilities . . .

may be busy at work in the spacious, well equipped library. The student preserves the fine facilities at P.H.H.S. for classes which will follow.

. . . respects the policies

Mr. Gaylord Feick
Principal

Port Huron High School

Mr. Gaylord Feick has served as Principal of Port Huron High School since January, 1965, when he assumed the duties of resigning Mr. Colen J. Sommerville. Mr. Feick first came to our school as a chemistry teacher. Then, in 1962 he was appointed Assistant Principal of Port Huron High. Mr. Feick has displayed the supreme guidance which every student and staff member of this school respects. His conscientious and eloquently spoken words, as well as his behind-the-scene efforts, have directed us in innumerable successes. The students say "HATS OFF" to Mr. Feick.

of Port Huron High School . . .

Miss Patricia Austin Assistant Principal

Miss Patricia Austin has served the students and faculty as Assistant Principal of Port Huron High since 1964. Miss Austin handles all problems relating to girls at P.H.H.S. She also heads the guidance and counseling services offered. Miss Austin is in charge of the testing program at the school and she is involved in curriculum development and program evaluation. Before assuming the position of Assistant Principal, Miss Austin was a counselor and an English teacher. The students and faculty wish Miss Austin continued success at Port Huron High School.

Mr. Wallace Nault Assistant Principal

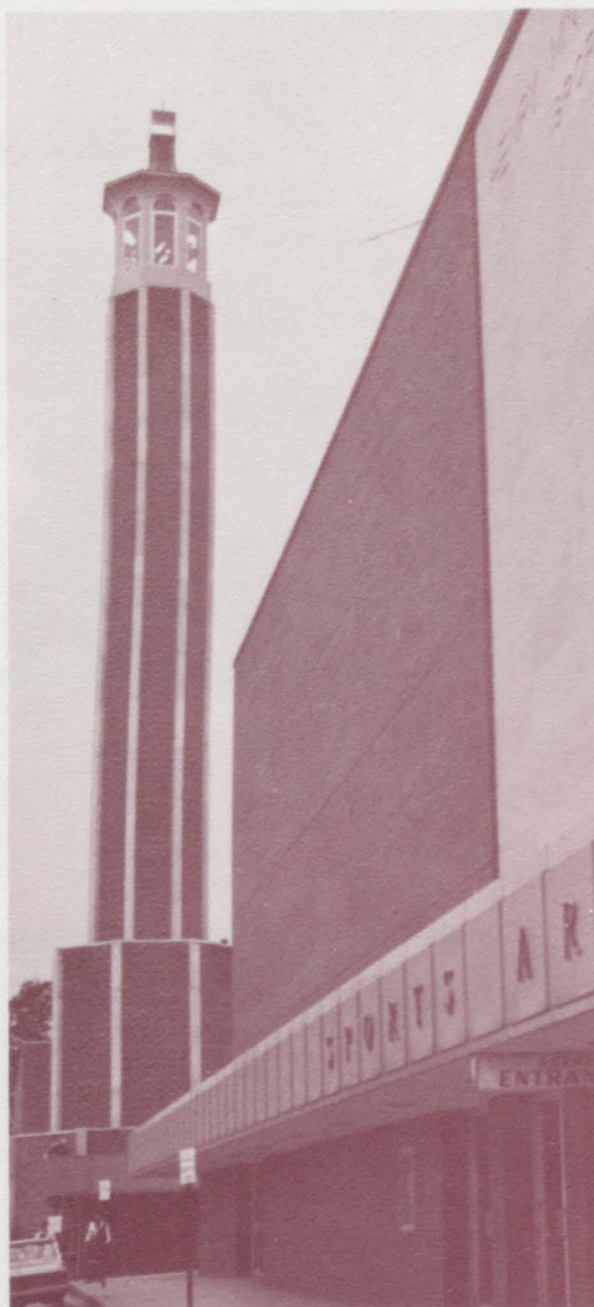

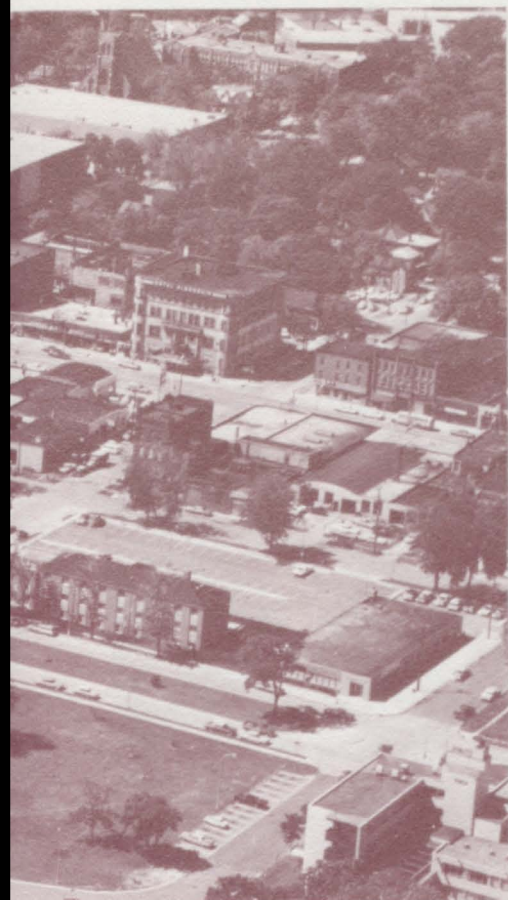

Mr. Wallace Nault was appointed Assistant Principal of Port Huron High School in January of 1966. Before taking on these new responsibilities he served as a boys' counselor and previously he taught in our social studies department. Mr. Nault, as well as Miss Austin, assist Mr. Feick in carrying out various administrative duties. Mr. Nault is specifically concerned with the Driver's Training Program which he supervises. We wish Mr. Nault a successful career as Assistant Principal of Port Huron High School.

...admires his expanding,

fair community . . .

Port Huron is a progressive city. The expanding city limits continue to be adorned with new edifices as necessity is shown. The new interstate highway system has transformed our surroundings, making them resemble those of many other prosperous metropolitan areas. The growing population demanded the construction of three elementary schools and Port Huron Northern High School. Through the gracious gift of Andrew J. Murphy a Junior Sports Arena and Tower are added to the McMorran Complex.

Board of Education

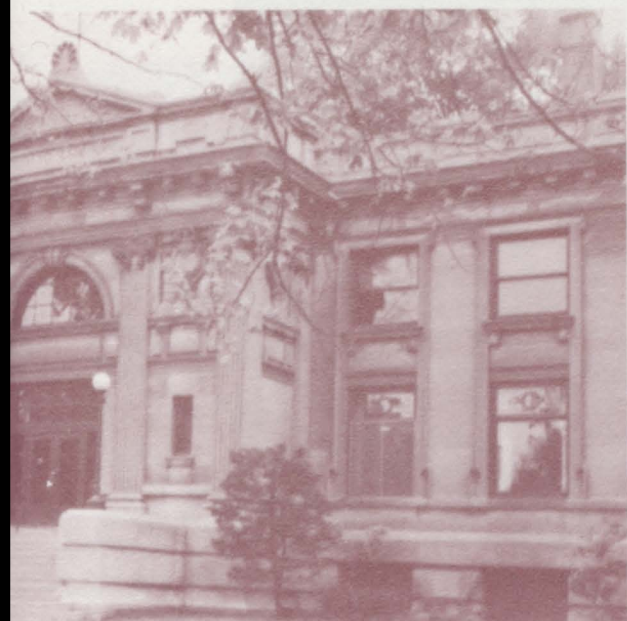

The seven members of the Board of Education have explored many new areas of educational opportunity during the 1965-66 school year. Along with this, the Board has been very busy with such regular activities as policy making, personnel approval, appropriations of budgets and expenditures, and a second curriculum study. Many extra meetings were held regarding special problems and the millage struggle.

Education is moving into many new areas of exploration and our Board is keeping Port Huron up to date with much of this. The opening of the Thomas A. Edison Elementary and Sparlingville Elementary Schools, programmed our district into the practices of team teaching and individualized instruction. The initiation of Project Headstart explored the need for offering culturally deprived children a chance for a better start in school. A citizen's study to effect possible reorganization of the Junior College was launched. Application for federal funds for home study centers and remedial instruction programs faced up to the need for helping educationally disadvantaged children.

... in preparation for a future

as an asset to his community

Port Huron High School students realize the importance of developing their minds and personalities in order to be assets to their community during and after high school. Thus, these public buildings represent the resources which the community makes available to its young members. They serve as sources of knowledge, justice, and recreation - all necessary elements in the complete student and citizen of Port Huron.

"More ads, more subscriptions, if you want a six-page paper next time," Jenny Pelton, business manager, explains to Lucienne Petee, advertising manager and Amy Dortman, editor-in-chief.

Double checking copy against duplication on any page are page editors Diane MacPharlin, William Himes, Peggy Bigger, Sandra Emlaw, Sandi Hall, and Carol Emlaw.

Since 1922 the Lighthouse has served Port Huron High School students, always striving to achieve the goals of the paper's original motto, "Loyalty and Service." This year's staff adopted the following editorial policy to augment the motto:

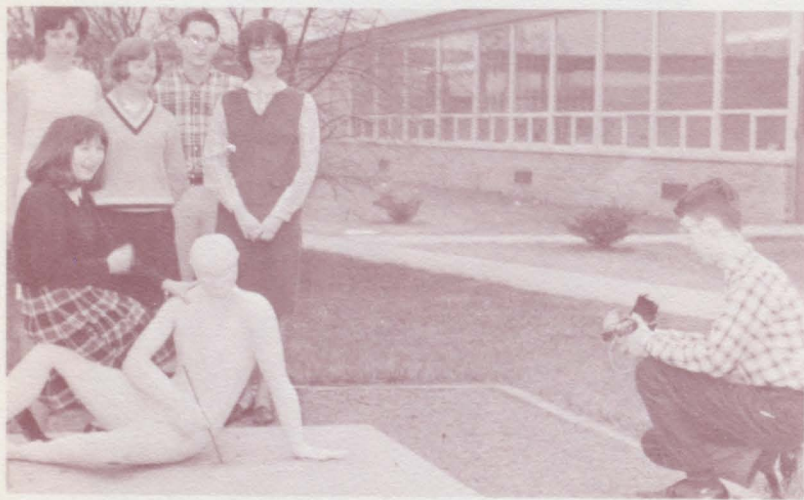

To print a school newspaper in the interest of the entire student body; to report school and community news without prejudice.

To give students an opportunity to express their own opinions through signed letters to the editor.

To make every effort to stimulate interest in all worthwhile student activities.

The Lighthouse is a member of the Quill and Scroll Society, Michigan Interscholastic Press Association, and Columbia Scholastic Press Association.

Mrs. Mary Glenn Sanderson is the adviser.

"Stop shivering and giggling," Wesley Plouff, staff photographer commands, as reporters Joe Burgett, Nancy Hanneke, Constance Cash, William Brahany, and Lucy Burde pose for this picture.

The 15th Annual Senior Government Day was held in St. Clair County on April 28, 1966. Port Huron acted as host to what was the largest gathering of Senior Government Day students ever held in the state of Michigan. Students from the county heard Dr. Gerald DeGrow, the Superintendent of Port Huron Area Schools, deliver the opening message. Later, students met in smaller groups to hear local and state government officials discuss such varied topics as mental retardation, juvenile delinquency, civil rights, and recreation facilities. The first Senior Government Day was held in the Woodrow Wilson Gymnasium, but it was transferred to the McMorran Auditorium and, later, to the McMorran Sports Arena in order to accommodate growing numbers of area Seniors.

Co-chairmen, Jorja Goodman and Robert Barker worked along with Mr. Ralph Harrison to make this a successful Government Day.

American Literature opens many gateways

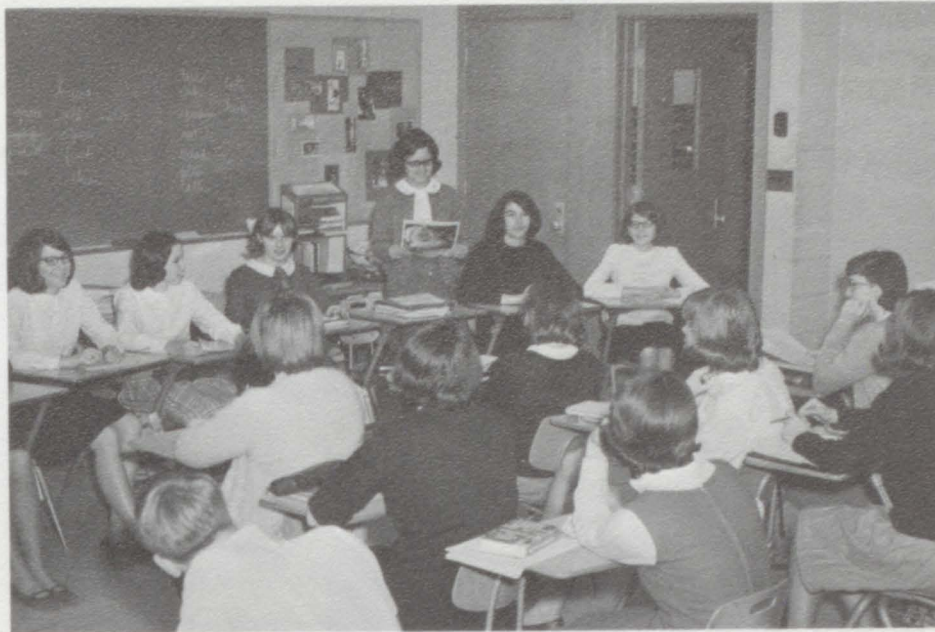

Mrs. Shaefer's first-hour, Senior, American Literature class is reading their assignment on Longfellow. They plan to discuss "The Arsenal at Springfield" the following day.

Robert Leslie recites Bryant's "Thanatopsis" to Mrs. Houck's American Literature class.

Grammar strengthens our language

Mary Ann Wiegand (standing) and her panel, Judith Cleland, Patty Kay Mehan, Cynthia Nurnberg, Nancy Williams, and Susan Cleland, report on the Christmas traditions in different countries in Mrs. Chidester's ninth-grade English class.

Janet Miller recites parts of Shakespeare's Julius Caesar in Mr. Malone's tenth-grade English class.

Gary MacDonald gives his six-week's book report to Mrs. Schaefer's Senior English class.

Problems in Democracy

In his second-hour Sociology class, Mr. Willard explains one of the many effects of heredity on human life to Jacqueline MacBeth.

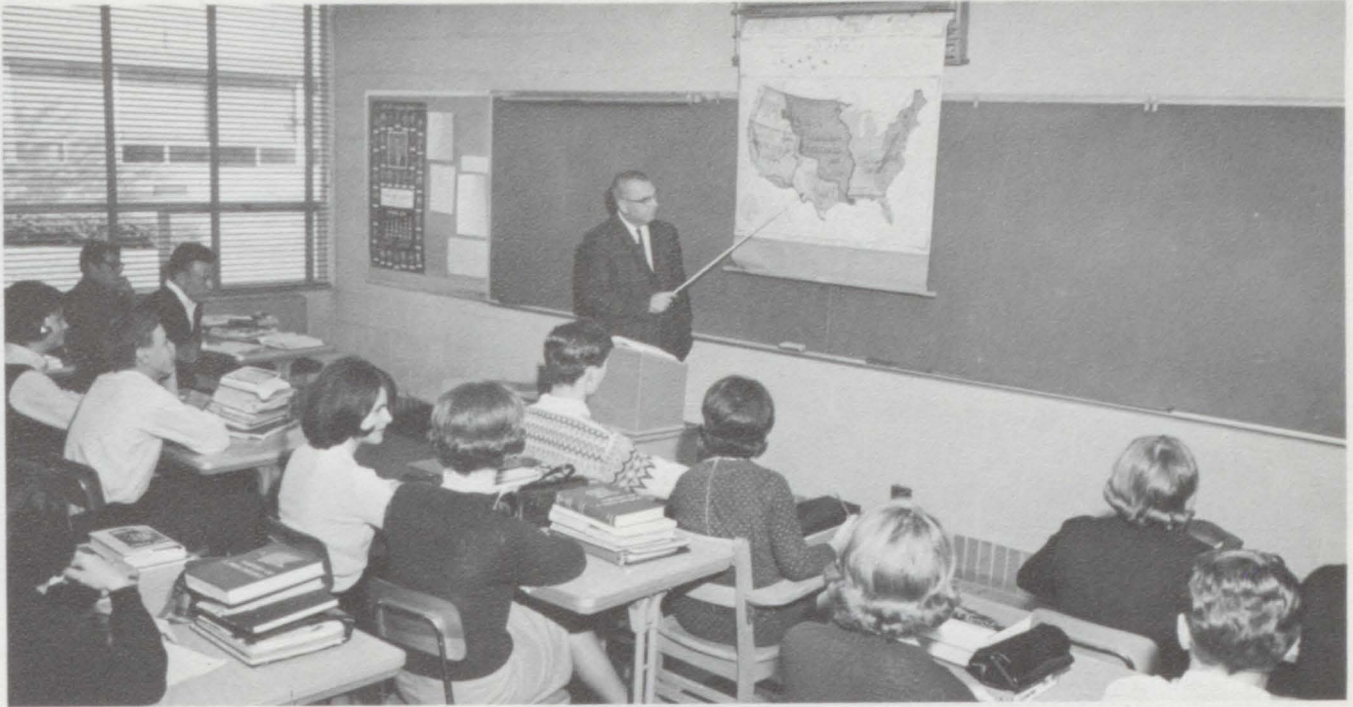

Mr. Harrison discusses the proposed 25th Amendment to the Constitution on "Presidential succession" in his second-hour American Government class.

In the sixth-hour Economics class Sue Vokes, Theodore Rachwal, and James Vaughn explain to the class how factories contribute to the economic growth of the United States.

The past is linked with the present

Mr. Lincoln points out the changes in the United States territory to his first-hour American History class.

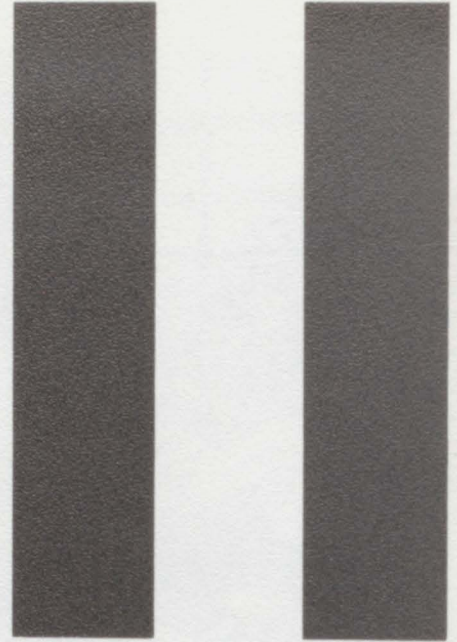

Freshmen learn the basics of government

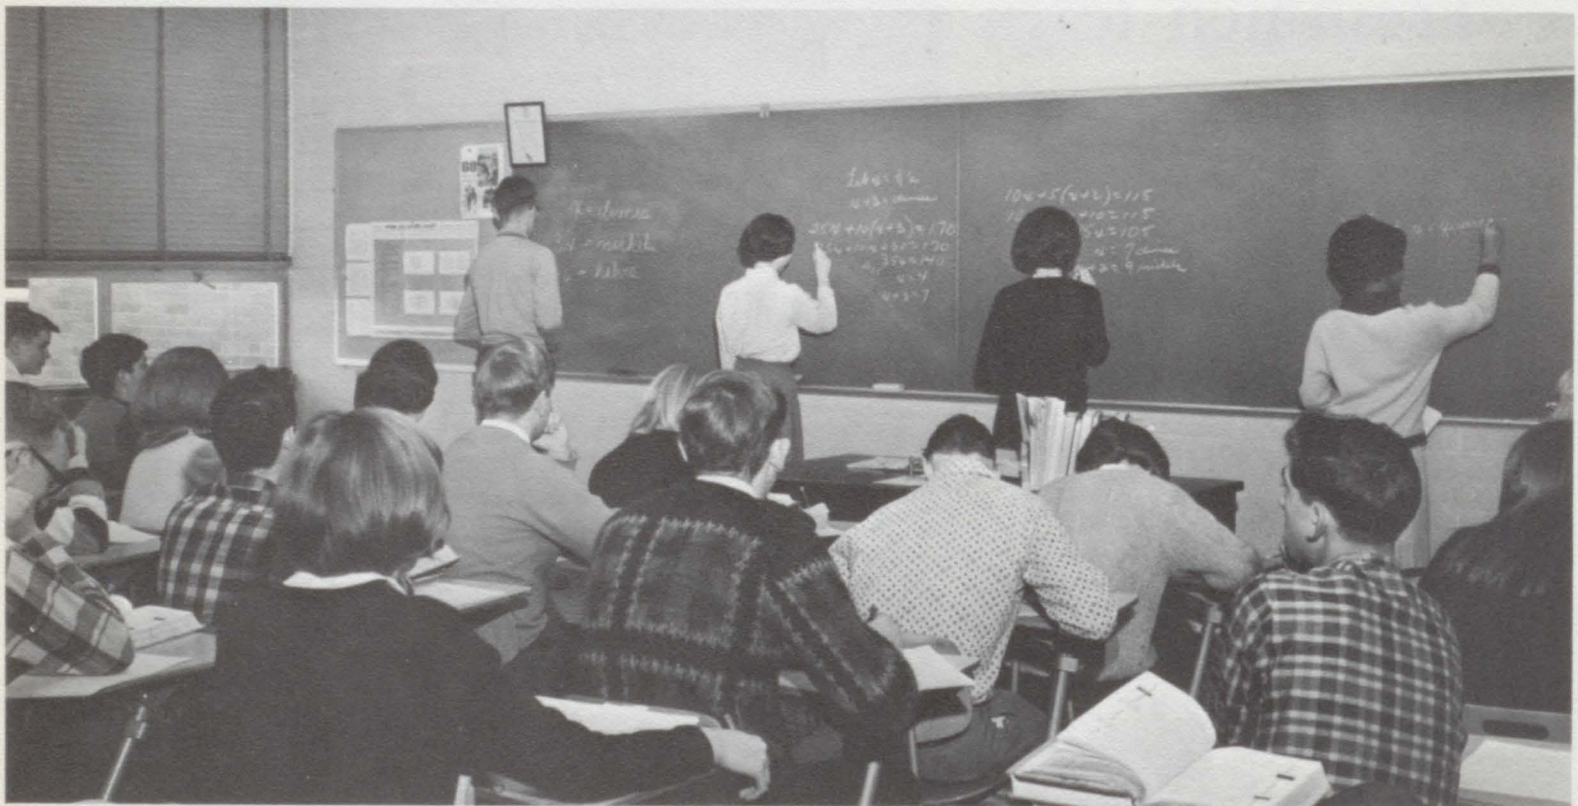

Mary Ann Weigand gives a report to Mr. Pesano's fourth-hour Civic's class.

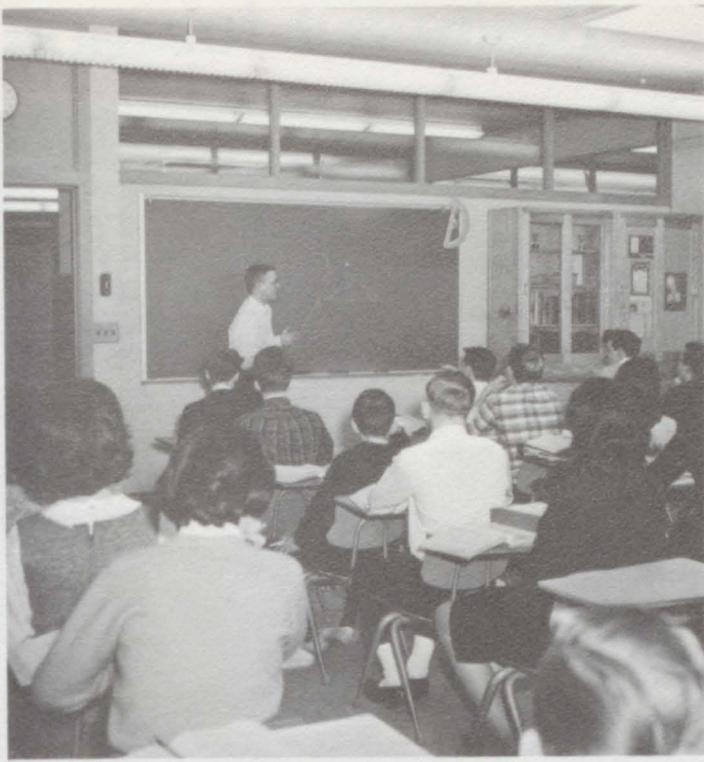

Gail Bialk and Aleta Day put problems on the board during their first-hour, second-year Algebra class while the rest of the class makes corrections on their papers.

Math. . .

Four students, David Smiley, Rebecca Stanley, Darlene Leonard, and Rene Spear put problems on the board while the rest of the class watches, in Mr. William's first-year Algebra class.

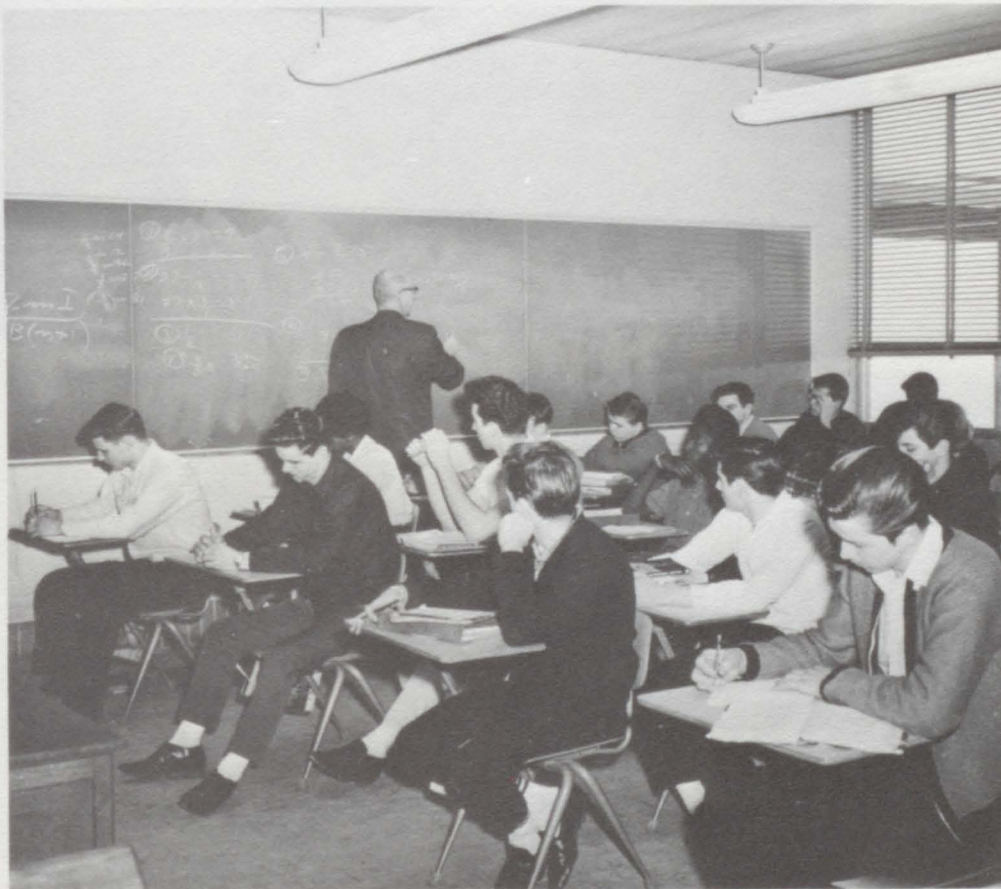

Miss Leonard's Plane Geometry class is learning about triangles from the explanation of William Phippen.

The Trigonometry class, taught by Mr. Case, looks on as Thomas Hammar explains the construction of cones.

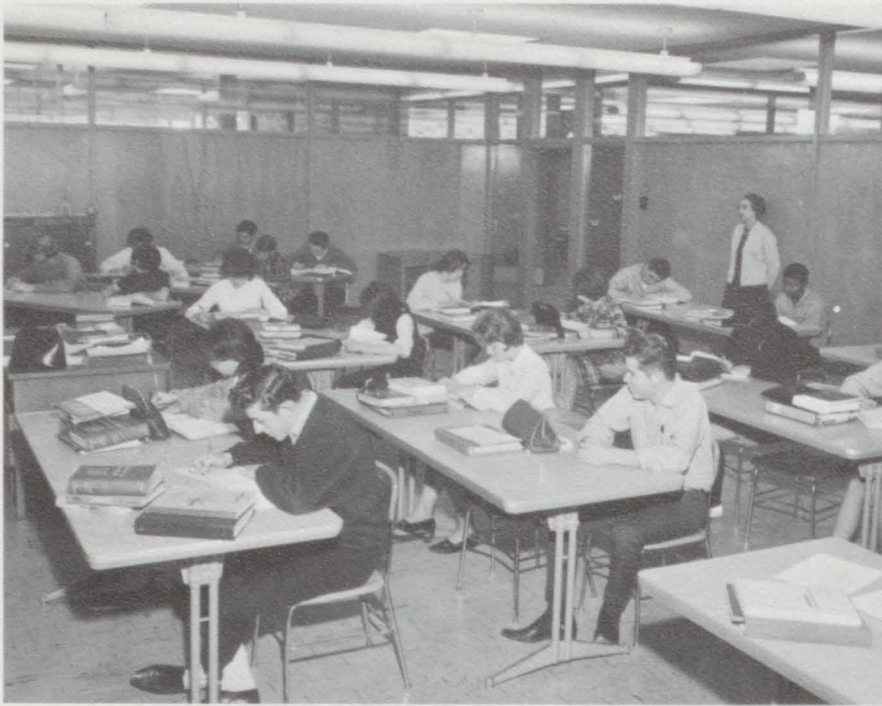

the language of the sciences

The Practical Mathematics class corrects homework problems as Mr. Anderle places answers on the board.

Practical Mathematics is the study of numbers. Algebra, unlike Practical Mathematics, uses letters instead of numbers. Geometry offers the study of figures on a plane and on a three-dimensional surface. Trigonometry is the study of triangles. There are many fields in mathematics beyond Trigonometry such as Analytic Geometry, Calculus, and Probability. Mathematics has proven itself to be the "gate and key of the sciences."

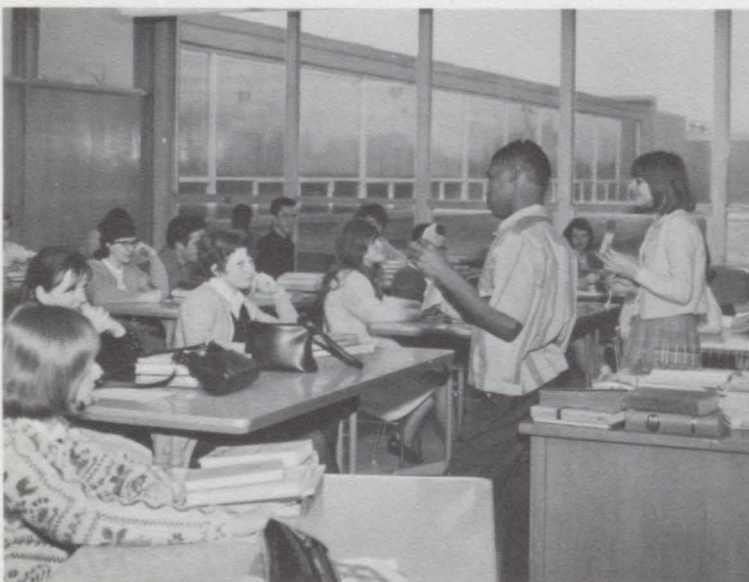

Business education

Miss Ruthe observes her third-hour Bookkeeping class while they take their six-week's test.

Mrs. Lindsay dictates the daily lesson to her fifth-hour Stenography class.

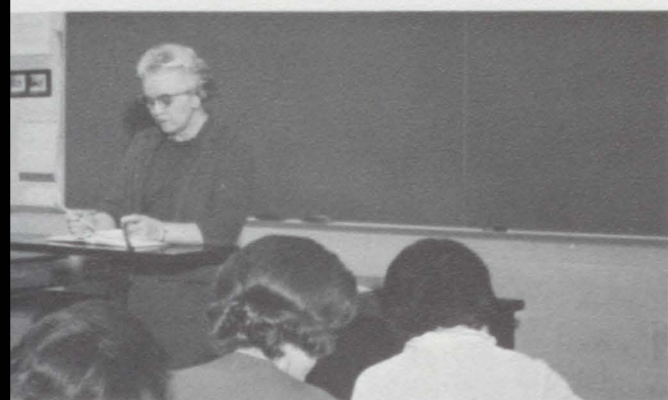

Miss Birdsall's sixth-hour General Business class studies insurance. Arthur McMillan and Teresa Tipa display insurance policies to their class.

prepares for careers

Miss Frankhauser's first-year typing students are working intently typing as many words as possible in one minute in her fifth-hour class.

Mr. Verran observes students in his Office Machines class as they practice on a ten-key adding machine, a full-key adding machine, a transcription machine, a key-driven calculator, or a rotary calculator.

Languages provide visits

Miss McClure is telling her first-year French class about the authors shown on the bulletin board.

The second-year French students give their teacher, Miss McClure, their full attention as she begins the class.

Latin students learn the meanings of English words from related Latin words. Spanish is the language of Mexico, Central America, and much of South America. French is considered to be one of the most clearly understandable and precise of all languages.

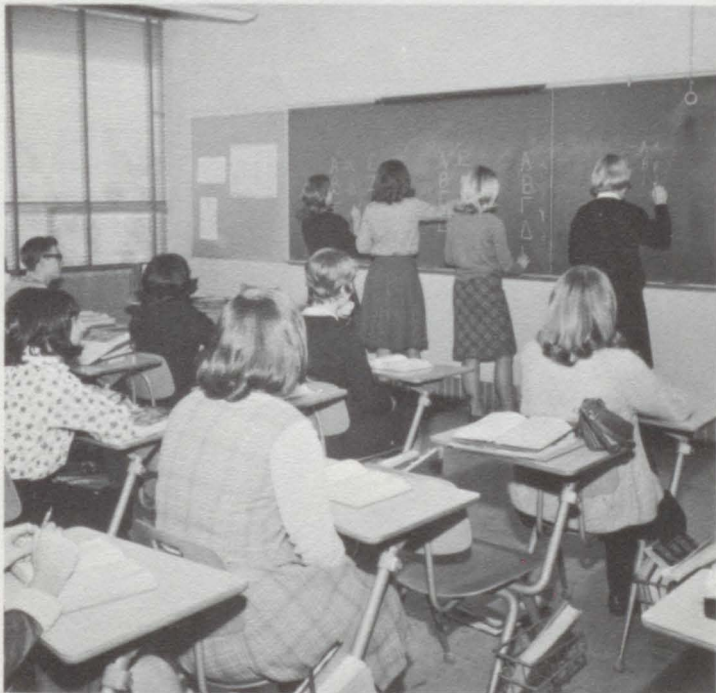

The first-hour, first-year Spanish class receives corrected tests from Mrs. Slater, while Richard Sanchez and William Gentry place the daily assignment on the board.

to many different countries

Mrs. Slater's second-year Spanish class is making use of the language laboratory located in the annex.

Mary White, Anna Marie Gauthier, Janet Krupp, and Sherry Woolley put the Greek alphabet on the board, as the rest of the class looks on in Miss Edward's third-year Latin class.

The students in Miss Edward's first-year Latin class work diligently on a chapter test.

Field hockey enthuses girls

Christensen, and Linda Hall. TOP ROW: Patricia Hanel, Nancy Bennett, Jennifer Pelton, Sandra Hayes, and Katherine Kavallich.

This is how we stay limber and in top shape!

The second-hour leaders demonstrate to the girls the various procedures followed in playing field hockey.

Leadership stressed in gym classes

on MacDuff, Rita Stanislowski, Donna Wickings, and Ricky Woolman. TOP ROW: Diana Reitz, Patricia Hanel, Kathleen Crorey, Linda Borowski, Nancy Bennett, Barbara East, and Kathleen Moran.

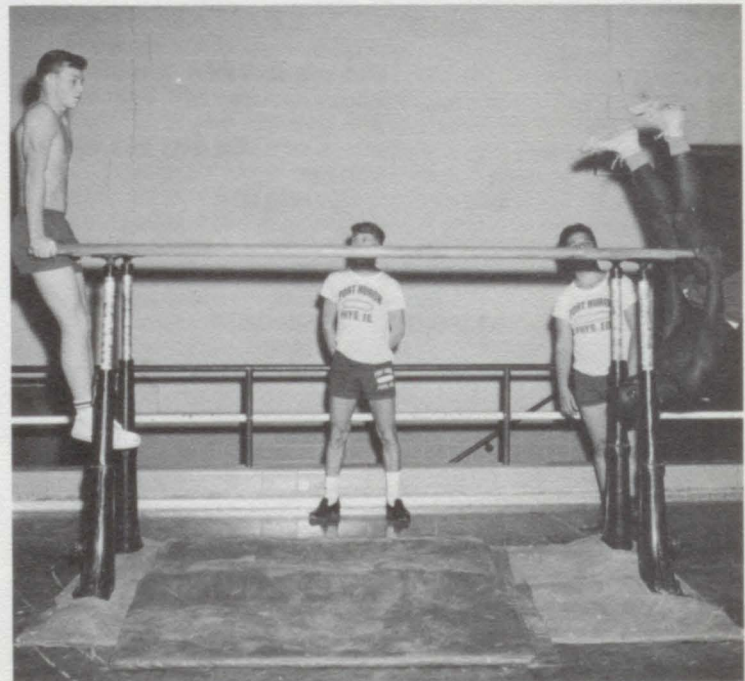

The first-hour leaders teach their fellow students how to toss and direct the ball when playing volleyball.

A leader takes on many responsibilities. She takes charge of the locker room, teaches exercises and instructs the gym classes in various sports. Her main obligation is to set a good example as a young lady and athlete for the other girls in the class.

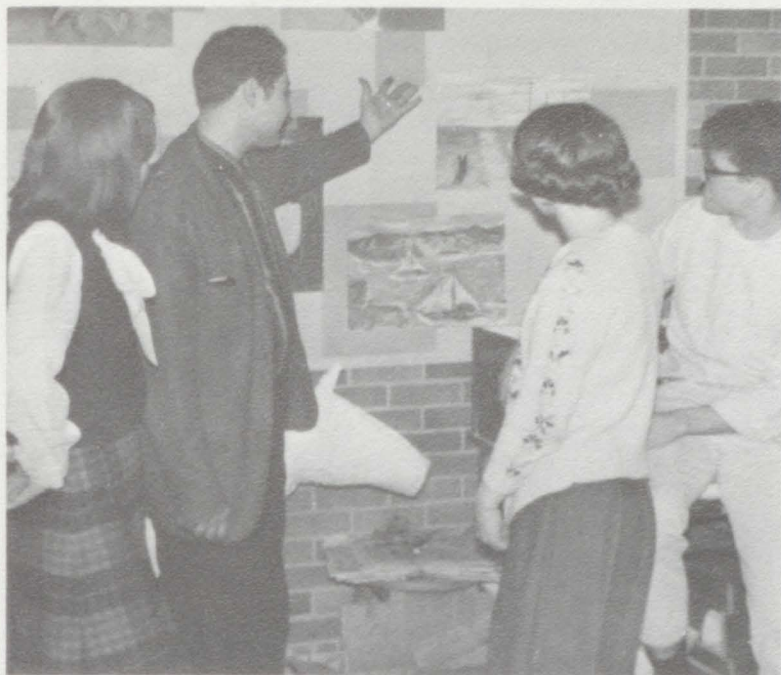

Physical fitness is important in youth

In the picture to the left, Albert Cooper and Stewart Albert watch Lawrence Herriman climb the rope as George Johnston holds it for him. The picture above shows Mr. Laughlin's third-hour Physical Education class doing their exercises. They are led by Robert Barker. In the picture below, Lawrence Herriman and George Johnston watch as Stewart Albert and Albert Cooper work out on the parallel bars.

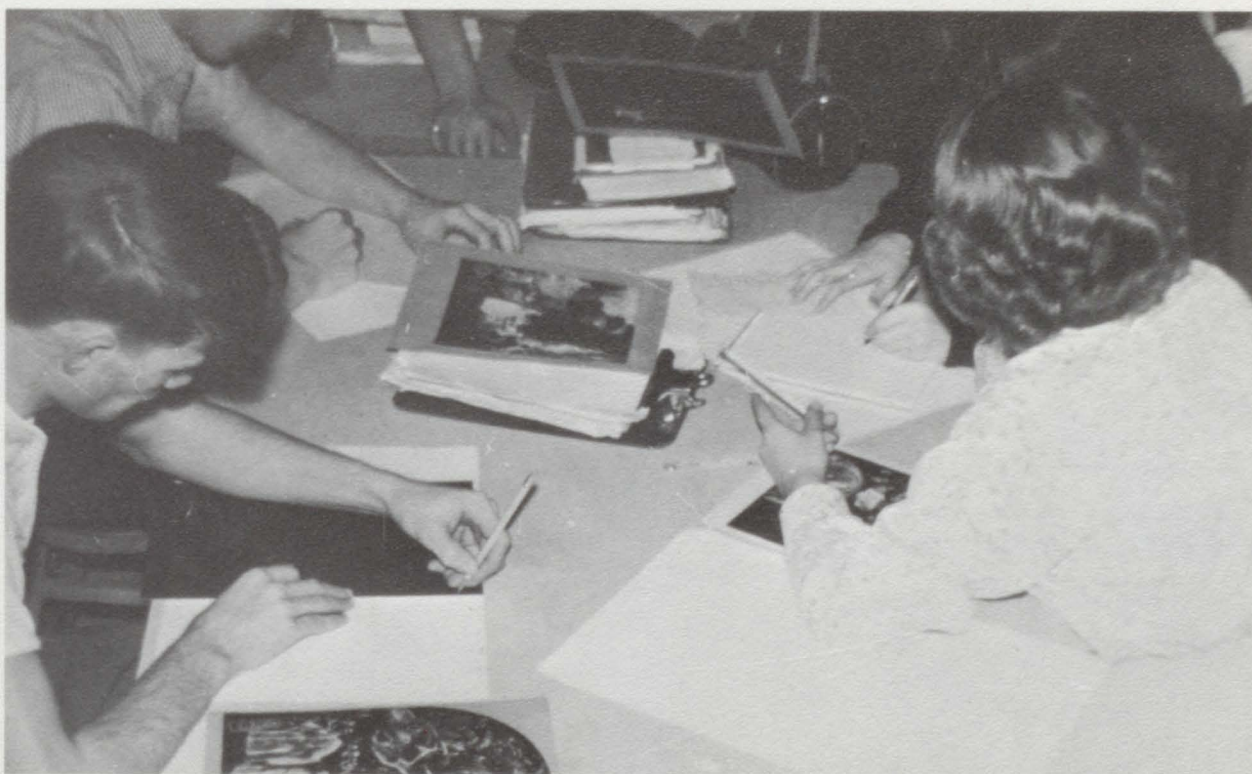

Fine Arts added to art curriculum

Mr. W. Mandt shows water color paintings, done by art students, to Cindy Jo Brown, Gail Bialk, and David Miller.

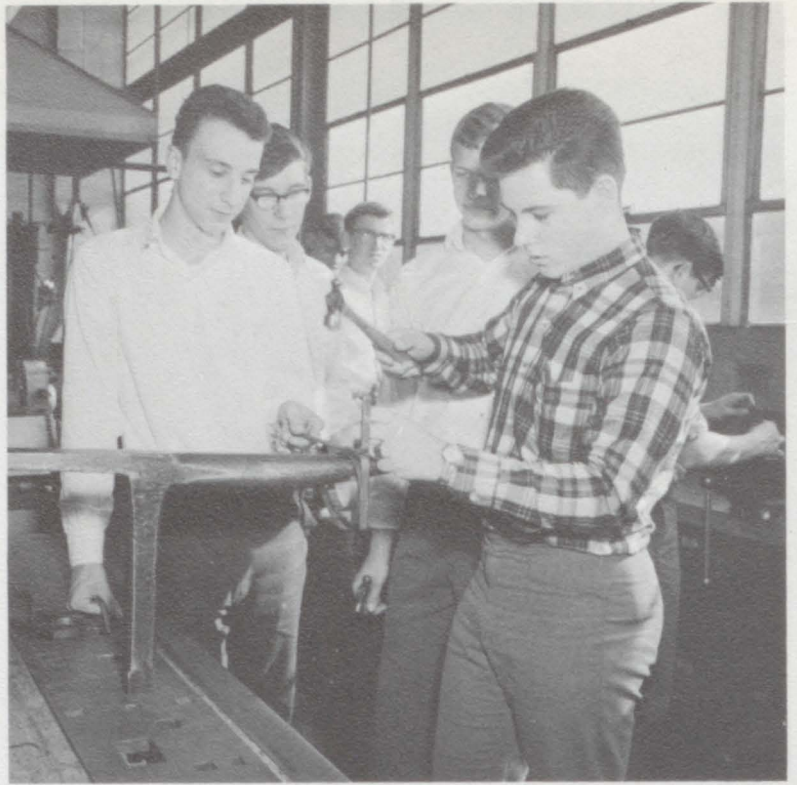

Vicki Smith, Michael Werner, Thomas Balkwill, Paul Hilliker, and Margaret Miller are at work on daily assignments in Mrs. McPharlin's sixth-hour Art class.

During their fifth-hour Fine Arts class, Michael Heath, William Himes, and Sandra Pleoger do analyses of paintings.

The boys in Mr. Cook's first-hour Vocational Machine Shop class are hard at work on their projects.

Alex Emerick lends a helping hand to Chris Sawdon while Stephen Bonner and Stephen Hudy look on in Mr. O'Brien's fifth-hour General Shop class.

Industrial Arts offer a means of experimenting

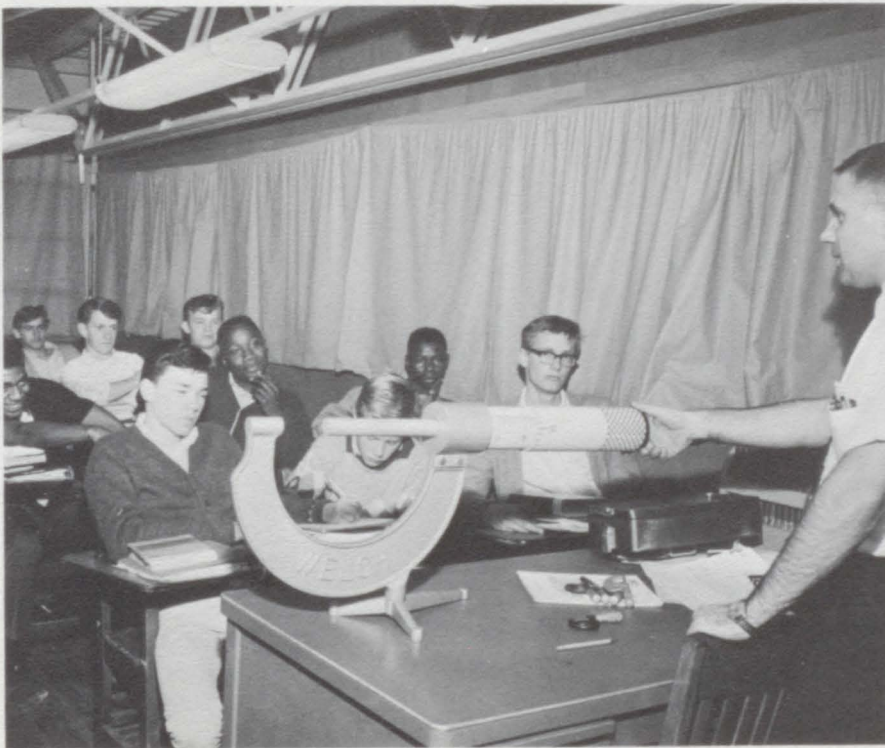

Jerry Freshour, Dennis Potvin, Richard Scott, Kenneth Suchin, Robert Collingwood, and Kenneth Gamble are busy with their projects in Mr. Buckman's first-hour Woodshop class.

Everyone in Mr. O'Brien's fifth-hour General shop class is busy with his assignment.

with different materials and tools

Vocational Machines offers the opportunity to learn Shop techniques and gives experience in operating power machines.

In Woodshop the students learn the correct ways of handling wood of many different types and forms; plus, they are instructed in the use of many wood-working tools.

General Shop offers a wide variety of projects in metal.

The satisfaction of working with ones hands

Miss Kuhlenkamp looks on as some members of her first-hour Crafts class work. They are: James Bartley, Larry Laturno, Michael Chesney, Deborah Barrett, Janet Dellin, Joanne Hunt, Daniel Klaas, Frank Toth, and Nat Hunt.

The art of a trade. . .

The Mechanical Drawing class is busy under the direction of their teacher, Mr. Belt.

Driver's Training promotes good driving habits

A good driver is alert, always prepared for the unexpected, and demonstrates good driving habits. His own safety and the lives of others depend on his driving ability. A good driver also shows courtesy to other drivers while on the road.

Mr. Hillaker explains the technique of left hand turns to David Snyder and Jacquelyn Morehead.

The sixth-hour Drivers' Training class listens while Mr. Hillaker lectures on rural driving.

Pleasant interruptions: lunch and study hall

The cafeteria is never quiet from 11:25 to 1:00. During this time there are three shifts of students pouring in and out. At times it is down to a dull roar, but usually a hectic pace reigns as we eat in twenty-five minutes.

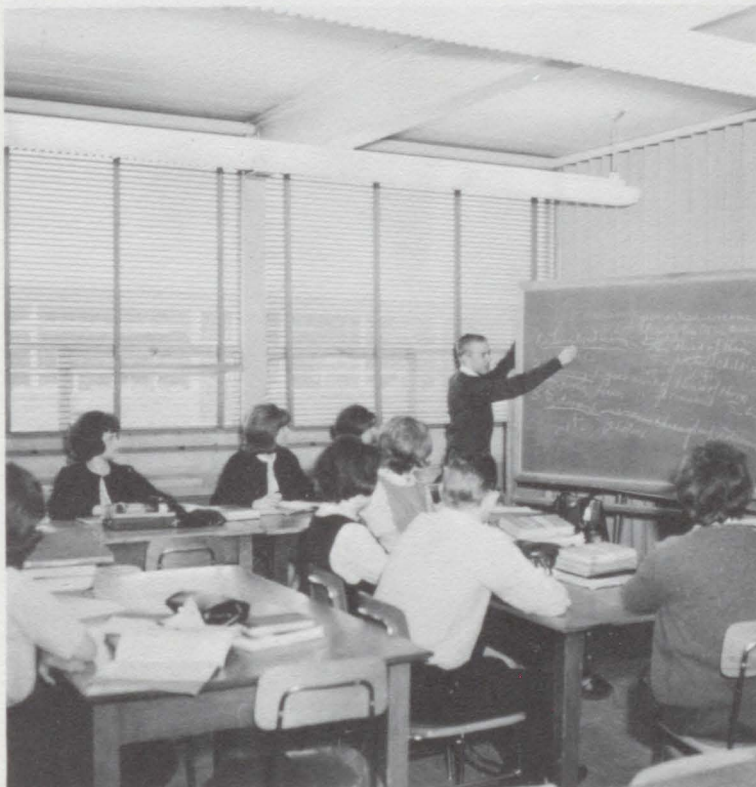

Study Hall provides a time for students to work on their assignments, but those few who use it as a "gab" session soon find out the consequences.

The arts of homemaking

Linda Eagle, Donna Ballard, Rosemary LaVere, Lorna Spencer, and Sharon Mintz prepare cake frosting in their third-hour Cooking class.

Grant Peabody explains a point of interest to his second-hour Home and Family Living class.

Below: John Aymen demonstrates to his physics class the functioning of a five-strand pulley.

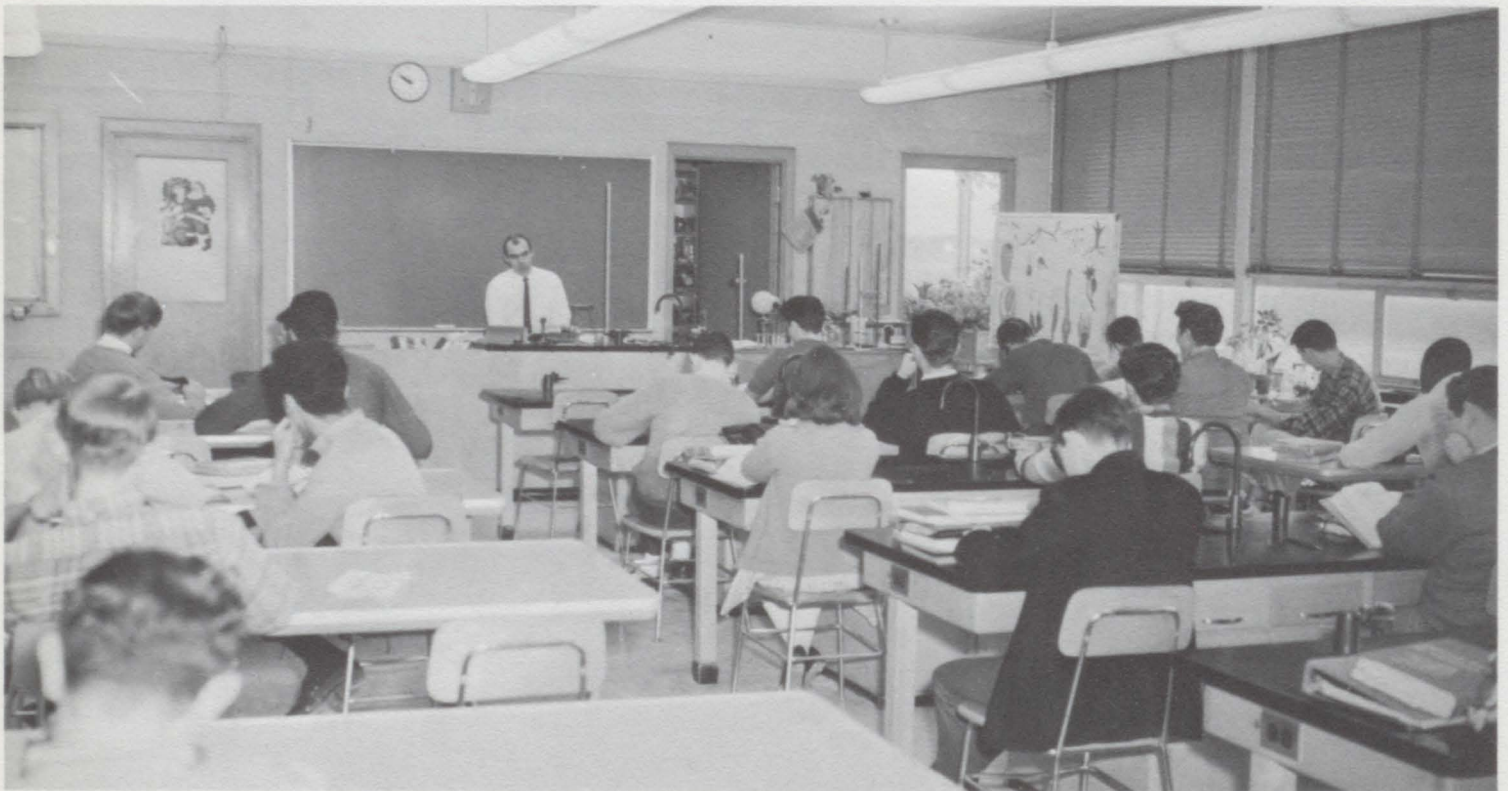

Science is the basis of life

Bottom: Mr. Spiess explains the different types of clouds and their formations to his General Science class.

This year's band boosted our P.H. morale and made "Band Boosters" out of all of us as well. They have helped to create our school spirit both at assemblies and games. Their performances during halftime in football season were greatly admired. It was a P.H. highlight when the band undertook Beethoven's complete Fifth Symphony and entertained us so exceedingly well with their fine performance at McMorran Auditorium. Our thanks to Mr. Hollinger and Port Huron High's enthusiastic and talented band members.

Miss Meade, who is our new choir director this year, attended Michigan State University and received her Bachelor of Music degree from Eastman School of Music. She also obtained her Masters degree in music at the University of Michigan. Miss Meade taught at Alma College for two years and taught last year at Grand Rapids Central High School. We thank Miss Meade for the many hours and efforts which went into making these fine choral groups.

Red Rose

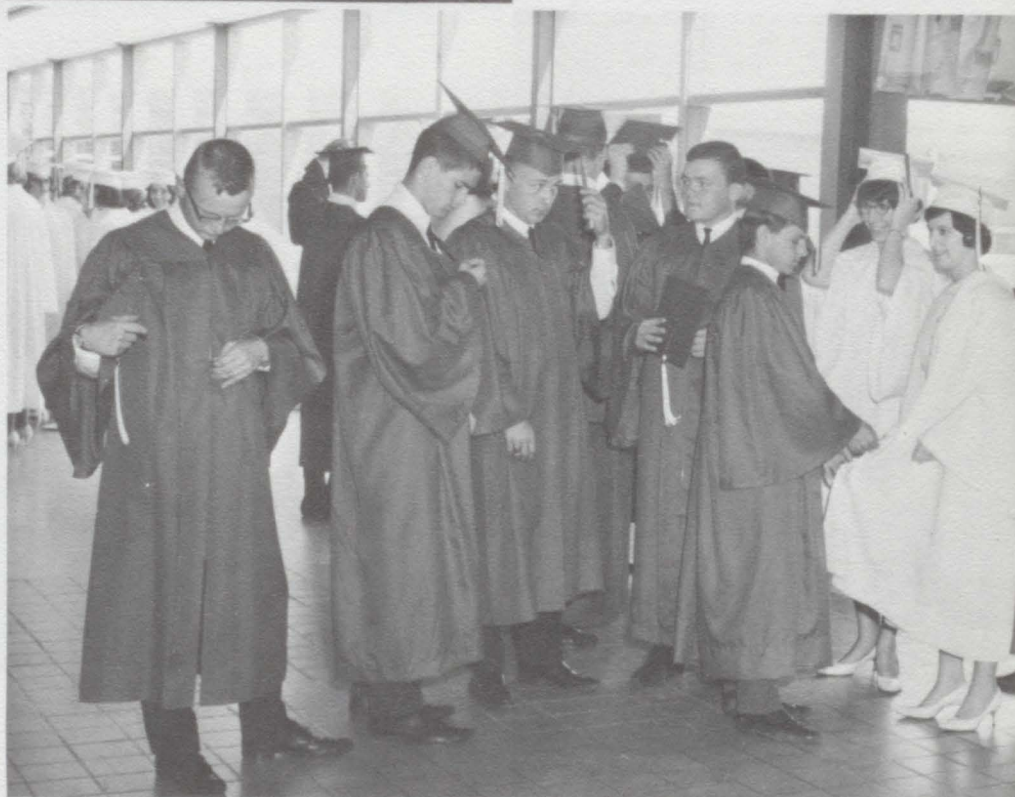

Senior class officers are Anthony Gholz, President; Terry Pettee, Vice-president; Ann Cleland, Secretary; and Mary White, Treasurer. They pose here with the principal, Mr. Gaylord Feick.

In order to raise money for activities of the coming year, Seniors begin the year with a Senior car wash and a bake sale. Homecoming festivities brought Seniors a third-place with their float, "Little Brown Jug How We Love Thee". Early in the fall the Senior class challenged the Juniors to a Tug-of-War. The Juniors got revenge in November by daring us to meet them under the lights in the first annual Powder Puff Football game. The Senior play, "Onions in the Stew," proved entertaining for all who attended its performances in December.

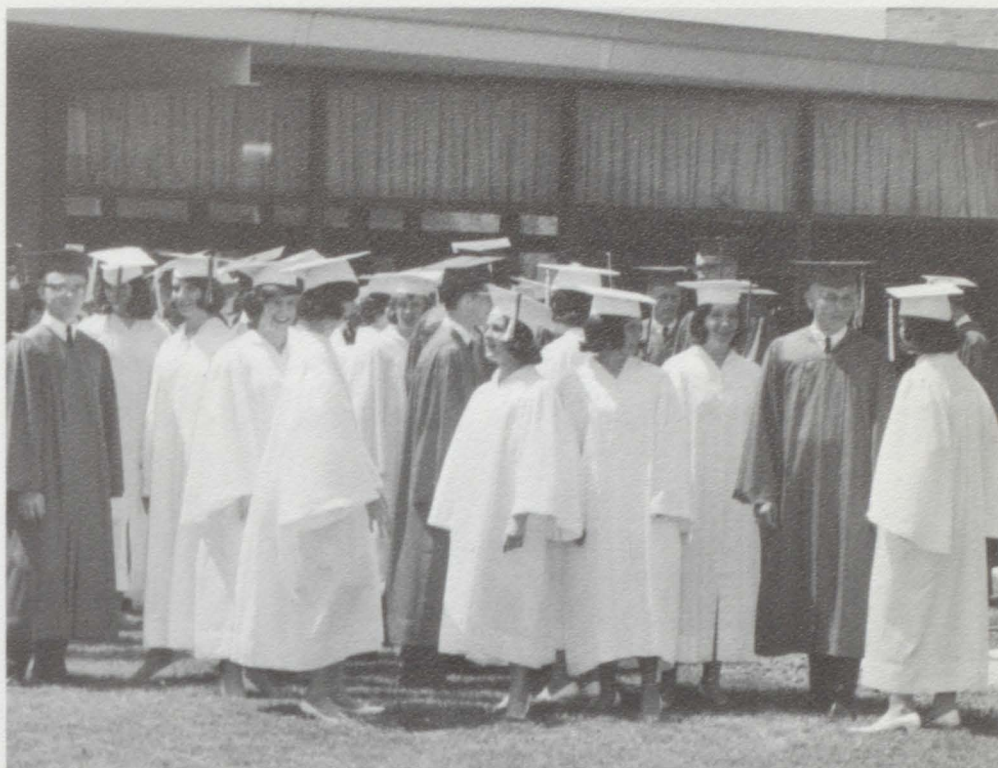

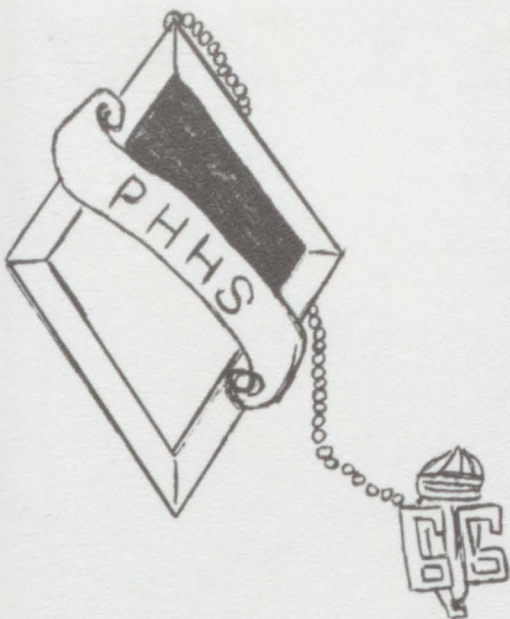

With booming voices and loads of school spirit, the Seniors won the traditional Pep Jug at a major pep assembly.

Seniors busily prepare for graduation exercises with many marching practices. They await June 13th with great anticipation.

Coach Hal Willard

The Senior girls' Powder-Puff football team was coached by Varsity Football Coach, Hal Willard. Mr. Willard graciously gave his time to help teach new plays to the girls. All of the Senior girls who participated in this activity would like to thank Coach Willard for all his fine assistance.

Around the school

The Seniors held a car wash in September to raise funds for forthcoming activities. Terry Pettee, Vice-President of the Senior Class, clowns around on Pine Grove Avenue flaging down customers. Students combined fun with work and the car wash proved very successful.

Seniors momentarily forget how "sophisticated" they are as they enjoy the snow in the courts during lunch hours.

In February Seniors were called to special assemblies where they learned of careers for men and women in the armed services.

Michael McCabe, Judy Zuidema, Kathleen Wesley, Diane Schoot, Charles Snyder, and David Hall read material about colleges and careers from the "College Corner" located in the student lounge.

with "Mighty Seniors"

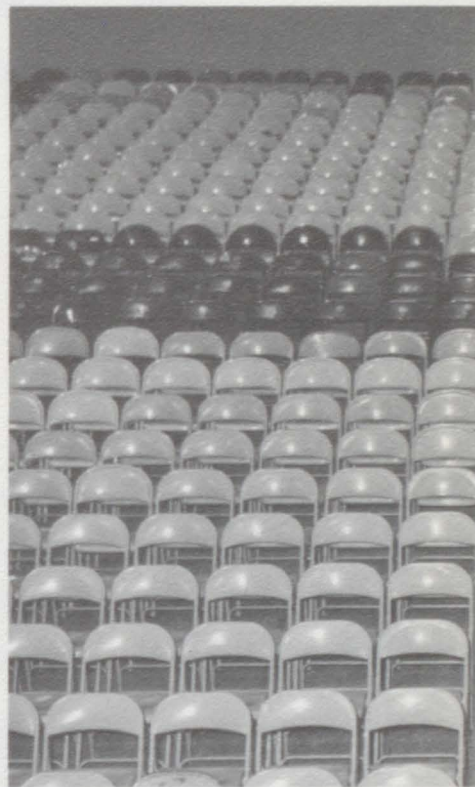

Seniors use their half-hour lunch breaks to converse with friends and eat a hurried lunch.

Gary Shevnock, Dorothy Fettes, Constance O'Neil, Sandra Hall, and Barbara Waters show Thomas Kierkegaard, our foreign exchange student from Sweden, how a hungry P.H.H.S. Senior eats.

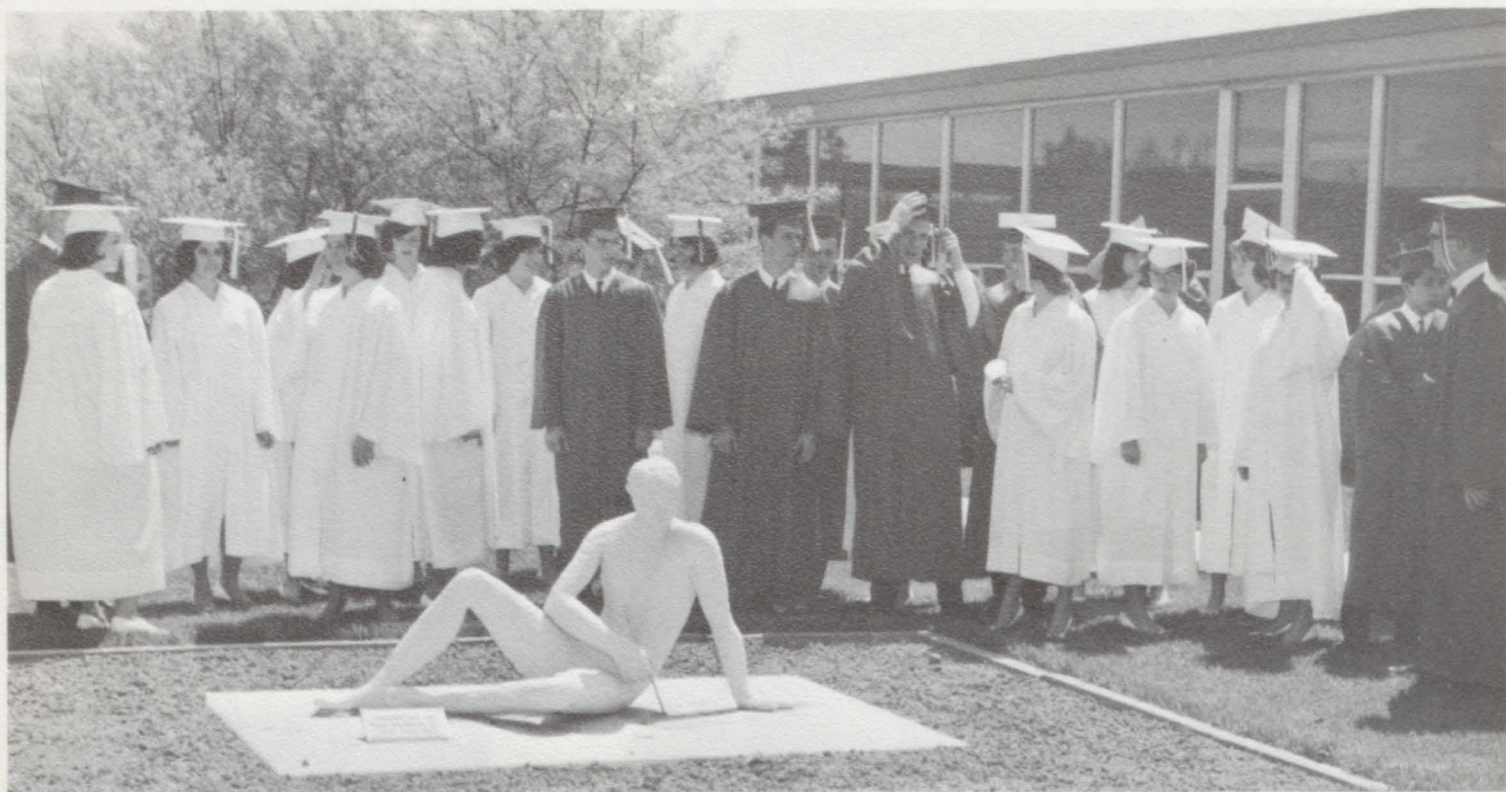

Seniors from the Young Republicans act as hosts and hostesses during Governor George Romney's visit to Port Huron High.

These are the chairs in which the "Mighty Seniors" sat during assemblies. Now the Seniors graduate and leave the chairs empty, awaiting the incoming Senior class.

What does a Jolly

Concentration. Notice the intense look on this Jolly Junior's face as she prepares her brew. Can it be a cure for cancer or an insect repellent?

Intelligence. A Junior studies so long and so hard at night to keep his grades up, that during classes he has a hard time keeping his head up.

Relaxation. A Junior knows when it is time to take a break from the daily routine.

Juniors stand for?

Togetherness. When a Jolly Junior takes time out to sit and think, does he do it alone? Of course not!

Individuality. No one can say that a Junior does what everyone else does, for as you can see, he decides what he wants to read when he wants to read it.

Energy. Whether the Juniors are working on a class project or swinging at a school dance, they always do it with that added ounce of pep.

Juniors win a much

Before the game much of Mr. Charles Lincoln's spare time and energy was spent in teaching the Junior girls secret plays and safety rules. The Junior girls realized what a great coach he was when they gained many needed yards and scored touchdowns after following his advice.

Co-captain Georgina Greene carries the ball into the end zone for a touchdown. Throughout the game she and co-captain Robyn Gilbert showed their ability for quick thinking and continuous action.

"You will always be lucky if you carry a rabbit's foot wherever you go." The Juniors thought about this cliché as they attempted to find a suitable mascot for their team. They finally came up with "Rabbit," who proved to bring them four times as much good luck as a rabbit's foot.

The locker room was tense with excitement as the clock ticked away the time. Restless and yet ready for the game, the Junior girls tried to remember all that they had learned from their coach. Last minute instructions were added to the already mixed-up minds. The clock struck seven forty-five and out the Juniors ran, ready and eager for a victory.

Action, mud, girls, and a football provided laughs and thrills for the many fans who had gathered to watch the two teams. After four quarters of bumps and bruises, the Junior girls walked off the field knowing the joy of victory. At the dance following the game, the Junior Co-captain Robyn Gilbert was presented with the Powder Puff Trophy. The first annual Port Huron High School Powder Puff Football Game was a success!

"Yea, team! Yea, team!" "J-U-N-I-O-R-S Juniors, Juniors, They are the best!" These chants, led by nine peppy cheerleaders rang out from the west bleachers: BOT-TOM ROW: Captain Jeffery Billins, John Pozdrowski, David Carpenter, Steve Lewis, and David Bailey. TOP ROW: David Heino, Gordon Jamison, Michael Kelly, and Bruce Cristick.

After many days of thoughtful consideration, the Juniors decided upon a Spanish theme for the J-Hop and entitled it "Moon over Madrid." Now everything was ready, but wait . . . Shall the decorations be light or dark? Who will chaperon? What kind of refreshments will there be? These and many more questions were suddenly brought to the attention of the Steering Committee by Mr. Belt.

After many weeks of hard work, the Juniors display their finished product. Constructed of wood, wire, a little paint, and a lot of patience, their pride and joy paid off by taking first place in the float contest.

Although the weather was a little wet for the Juniors themselves, it did little harm to their mighty white whale. With blinking eyes and a moving tail, he majestically rides the waves.

"I'll frighten him to death; he'll think I'm a teacher," says Janet Olson. Hall Monitor Terry Ruff has had a hectic day.

William Nedela takes Port Huron Catholic High School students, Steven Hudson and Ross Green, on a tour of P.H.H.S.

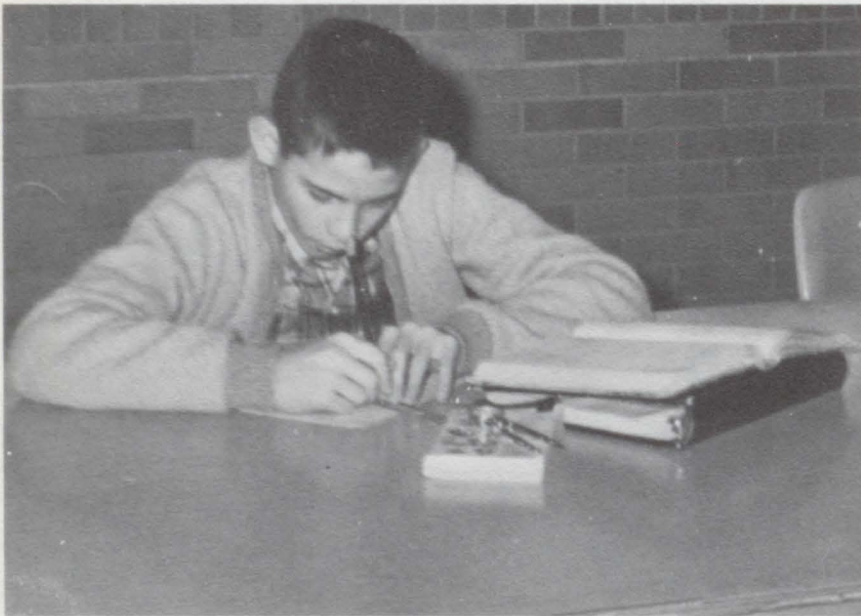

Class of '68 reaches high scholastic goals

Miss Barbara McClure's sixth-hour French class often responds to her questions by writing the answers in French on the board. Here, Martin Lester shows his linguistic talents.

Throughout the school day many students can be seen studying in the student lounge. Connie Emlaw, a runner for our counselors, takes another look at her English before class.

Geometry takes time and accuracy. Gerald Zieg concentrates on his geometry in his sixth-hour study hall.

"Let's see, three, four, five errors in twenty-five w.a.m.," says tenth-grader Kristine Cronce.

Sophomore Charles Sullivan entertains a fellow sixth-hour band member with a "tender" version of "When You Wish Upon a Star" on the drums.

Various activities

make up the day of a Sophomore

Sophomore boys, awaiting the bell so they may pass on to class, rest on hall benches after a hardy lunch.

Mr. Malone's sixth-hour English class completes a six week's exam after a hectic day. These Sophomores realize that success on six-week's tests takes hours of preparation and concentration.

They know what it's like

The many young people at Michigan Bell join in congratulating the members of the graduating class. They know what it's like to work hard for a diploma, and get one.

They know, too, what it's like to want a rewarding job with a future, and find one. If you think you might like to join them, either now or after college, do stop by to see us. We'll be happy to discuss the wide variety of career opportunities in the exciting field of telephone communications.
